SUCCESS STORIES

Name: Mrs Sumathi P

Address: W/o R Shanmugam, Vanivilasapura, Hiriya Taluk, Chitradurga District, Karnataka State

Educational Qualification: 10th Standard

Training Course: General EDP

Period of Training: 12.07.2021 to 17.07.2021

Background: Born in an agriculture family. Her husband was engaged in traditional agriculture. One day, she came across an article on importance of Sri Products in keeping good health and enhancing immunity of a person. This motivated her to take up preparation of Sri products as self-employment activity to support the family. She underwent training at Krishi Vigyan Kendra and started the venture on a small scale. Due to lack of managerial abilities she could not handle it properly. At this juncture, came to know about RUDSETI, Chitradurga through Women Development Corporation and applied for General EDP training. Sessions on competencies, human relations and marketing infused a new confidence in her and enabled to run "Sri Atma Siridhanya Homemade Products" profitably. She has received number of awards from Government Departments and NGOs.

GOOD QUALITIES OF AN EMPLOYEE

Confidence

Having confidence is one of the great qualities of a person which an employee should also have. Being confident means facing challenges without any fear and the assurance that they will perform well even under pressure. Confident people are willing to take risks and be able to complete tasks without any worries.

Excellent Communication Skills

Just like in any field, communicating well is a great quality to have. The skill to relay information quickly and efficiently is important, where data is crucial. Having excellent communication skills can spell success for an organization. This leads to having the ability to collaborate among people in the team to be successful in whatever that they do.

Work Experience

Having relevant work experience is among the great qualities of a person. Employers must know who they're hiring has enough knowledge for that particular field. Work experience can reign supreme over having advanced learning. Whereas 91% of the time, companies would pick someone with more relevant experience over those with advanced degrees or those who went to well-known institutions. This is because most companies focus more on those who could help the organization advance faster because of their experience.

Growth Mindset

As an employee, having a growth mindset is a great quality to have. A growth mindset is having the ability never to stop learning, even if you think you are in your highest knowledge. A person with this trait looks at failures and challenges as a way to learn and improve themselves. Along with this is accepting changes and looking at it as an opportunity to sharpen their minds and gain more experience to contribute more to their organization.

Leadership Potential

Leadership qualities of a person do not always lead to becoming an executive or a manager in the future. Yes, many people aim to reach that goal, but the quality of having leadership potential is the ability to inspire other people to improve. It is when a person brings out positivity and motivates people to become better.

Innovative Ideas

In line with having a leadership potential is having ideas that are innovative and fresh. As an employee, everyone works hard to reach the top and be successful at what they do. Those employees share new ideas that can improve an organization for the better. This is in line with having the mentality of growth and improvement.

Teamwork

Dealing with people is part of the process as an employee. Working for a team to achieve a common goal is what will lead to success in most cases. Becoming a team player is a great trait every employee should have. It is one of the qualities of a person to collaborate with other people, support and respect everyone, and adapt to new changes.

Reliable

Reliability goes hand in hand with honesty and having the integrity to work well for the company. This is an important trait a great employee should have. A reliable person gets the job done with minimal supervision and does it accurately.

Respectful

Whether it's in the workplace or everyday life, being a respectful person is something everyone should be. As an employee, you would want to be respected just as much you want other people to do the same to you. In terms of conflicts and resolving issues, it should be done in a good manner while maintaining peace. In line with this is professionalism.

Professionalism

When dealing with issues, judgments should be carefully considered so they are not based on emotions alone. In line with respect, maintaining a professional attitude is needed when dealing with other employees. Separating professional life with personal life is very important.

Problem Solver

A great employee should also be a problem solver. He/she needs to think about conflicts that may arise. They should know how to face them with proper solutions and think about the consequences of their actions. Problem solving qualities of a person make them put their best efforts to complete a task and do not leave any unfinished work on the table.

Committed

Being committed to the work and making sure every task is done well goes hand-in-hand with problem solving. Committed people are passionate people who have their focus set straight on work and the willingness to accept work constantly, however hard it may be.

Creative

In science, being creative can mean thinking out of the box to create solutions to problems, collaborate with other people, and frequently ask questions to improve on things.

Generous

A great employee is generous. Generous about sharing new information, expertise and experiences through mentorship and coaching. Generosity is one of the important qualities of a person that everyone should have. Being generous means knowing the power of knowledge and how it is important to be shared in order for other people to learn.

Curious

Great employees are curious. They want to know the “whys” as well as the “whats” of things. Curious people are people who want to learn. Being curious is being able to learn more and accept suggestions from people to improve on things. www

These are some of the qualities of a person that every employee should know or learn to improve themselves and become better at what they do. It is important to have these traits to succeed in whatever field they are in.
